GRANDFATHER'S STORY.

The grandsire was old, and his ha[ir] was white,
And his eyes lookded out with a p[ale] dim light;
His brain was weak, and his mem[ory] wild.
He thought he was born in the lo[st] ago time,
With the ancient heroes of Easter[n] clime.
His granddaughters smiled to hea[r] him say,

"I saw young David the giant slay
'Twas a trying time, for day by day
Between the hills where the armies lay,
The giant stalked like a walking p[ine]!
(Ah! laugh, little girls; you may w[ell] be calm.)
Near twice as tall as another man
Our king-King George-was exceed[ing] tall
(Did I say King George? I meant K[ing Saul]:
But a pigmy he was to this fearful [one].
His armor of brass shone out in th[e sun;
His voice was the voice of the ang[ry] sea.
'Send out your hero to fight with [me]!'
The valley shook with his heavy t[read];
We men of the Yankees turned an[d fled.
I was young then, scarcely a full-g[rown man;
I suddenly came on a youth as I r[ode].
A shepherd-boy, with his strip and crook,
But I shrunk ashamed at the young man's look,
For his eyes sent out a flash of li[ght]
As he spoke to us who had returne[d from the fight:

'Now who is this villain, that he s[hould defy
The armies that fight for the Lord [most high!

"Ah! let me see. And what next [befell,
'Twas so long ago, I can hardly te[ll].
Oh, yes! the champion, the God-s[ent] one.
I remember,-was Colonel Washing[ton]!"

HOW RATTLESNAKES CAPTURE SINGING BIRDS.

Pop. Science Monthly.

During the first week of their confinement his rattlesnakes disdained to chase their game, and the stupidity of the bugs and young birds made it easy enough to collar them whenever they were wanted; but one morning the gamins of the neighborhood brought an old blackbird and sold it to the zoological druggist for two pieces of stick candy. The blacksnakes were covered up with an old apron to prevent their interference, and the vivorous who had fasted twenty four hours, rather than eat cockroaches, got one more chance at a square meal. After fluttering around in an excited way for awhile, the bird settled down in a corner, and the two snakes prepared for action. They lowered their head, and without moving the tail end of their bodies, approached the bird by a gradual extension of their coils; but he was all suspicion, and recommenced his flutter ing before their cat like advance had brought them within range.

Then the female rolled herself up in the blackbird's corner and her mate took post in the center of the room, but, after readjusting their coils neither budged an inch; they bided their time. Dashing his head against the windows seemed to tire the bird for a while. Presently he came down, but alighted in a rather inaccessible place took wing again, and, alighting in his old corner, finally blundered into the water-pot. He hopped out with drenched wings and devoted a few seconds to the rearrangement of his toilet, unconscious or heedless of the proximity of the female partner of the hostile alliance. She watched all his movements, and her tail quivered in a curious way when she saw him poke his head under his right wing, the one turned toward the corner; she seemed to know that he would repeat the same maneuver on the left wing side. He did so; and she had him directly. Drawing herself up, she poised her neck like a dart, braced herself by contracting the rear coils, and let drive.

A loud screech, a few feathers flying and a terrified bird darting through the room like a blind chicken—cause and effect coinciding with shot-like suddenness. Instead of following him she returned to her favorite nook, where she was soon after joined by her mate. The difficult part of the job was done. Three or four times the bird managed to take wing, staggered around in a circle once or twice, and then sat still. The chemicals began to operate. First its legs and then its wings commenced to tremble: trying to stand upright it put its feet farther and farther apart and finally spread its wings, but to no purpose; a convulsive tremor seized it, and with a gasp it fell over on its side, and only at that moment did the snakes glide up to take possession of their prey. The same experiment was tried with a ground squirrel and two half-grown chickens, and always with an analagous result. No animal likely to offer serious resistance was captured outright by the rattlesnakes. They managed to fetch it a bite and let it go, relying on the virus to do the rest.

NEATNESS IN WOMEN.—A woman may be handsome or remarkably attractive in various ways; but if she is not personally neat she cannot hope to win admiration. Fine clothes will not conceal the slattern. A young woman with her hair always in disorder, and her clothes hanging about her as if suspended from a prop, is always repulsive. Slattern is written on her person from the crown of her head to the soles of her feet, and if she wins a husband he will turn out, in all probability, either an idle fool or a drunken man. The bringing up of daughters to be able to work, talk and act like honest, sensible young women, is the special task of all mothers, and in the industrial ranks there is imposed also the prime obligation of learning to respect household work for its own sake, and the comfort and happiness it will bring in the future. Housework is drudgery; but it must be done by somebody, and had better be well than ill done.

A Lexington, Ky., paper says "it would not do to introduce the bell punch in Lexington as a mode of collecting the tax on whiskey, for the reason that there would be such an incessant ringing it would be impossible to transact any other business because of the noise."

THE TRUE LADY.—The lady does not lose caste because she makes her own clothes, and is obliged to economize. "A lady is a woman who clearly understands and consistently practices, the refinements of a highly civilized existence; and the most real distinction between a lady and a woman who is not a lady, is that one is more civilized than the other, and more determined to preserve the habits of a high civilization, both in her own person and in all those over whom she has authority. These habits are not simply habits of expense, it is cheaper to remain sober than to get drunk, and yet it is more ladylike to be sober. It does not cost more money to speak good English than bad, or to be more gentle than rude; yet a lady always, from perference, speaks correctly and has gentle manners. It so happens by the force of circumstances that there are more ladies in the upper class than in the lower, and that there is a severer public opinion in the upper classes about most things which, taken together, constitute civilization, because it is a fault in rich people (who have great facilities) not to be clean and cultivated and polite, when it may only be a misfortune in poor ones. There is, then, really such a thing as ladyhood, and it is one of the strongest of civilizing influences.

There is a famous case on the books of a Norman hotel-keeper and the customer who ordered a six-egg omelette prepared but went away in a hurry without paying for it, and when he returned fifteen years later offered the landlord six francs, being for the original cost of the eggs and the interest thereon compounded. The landlord claimed a fabulous sum, alleging that the six eggs would have produced so many chicks, from which would have issued so many hens; that with the product of these innumerable fowls he would have bought a farm, which in so many years would have yielded so much money, which being invested, etc.—The Court, however, nonsuited the land lord because the eggs had been broken for the omelette, and so could not have been hatched.

Madam De Genlis, in her Memoirs describes the training she underwent to fit her for Parisian society in the last century:

I had two teeth pulled out; I had whalebone stays that pinched me terribly; my feet were imprisoned in tight shoes, with which it was impossible for me to walk; I had three or four thousand curl papers in my head, and I wore for the first time in my life a hoop. In order to get rid of my country attitudes, I had an iron collar put on my neck; and as I squinted a little at a time, I was obliged to put on goggles as soon as I awoke in the morning, and these I wore four hours. I was, moreover, not a little surprised when they talked of giving me a master to teach me what I thought I knew already—to walk. Besides all this, I was forbidden to run, to leap, or to ask questions.

The Berlin papers describe a plaid lately presented by the Prince of Hohenzollern to his bride, a princess of the house of Turn and Salis, as a marvel of costly beauty. The body is shaded like a cockleshell, and is of polished ebony inlaid with silver; and the cushions are of the richest purple velvet adorned with silver balls.

Under a South Carolina law which provides that money won at gambling shall, upon proof, be restored four-fold, a firm of Charleston has entered suit for $79,000 against the proprietors of two fashionable resorts, the amount alleged as having been lost by young men in whom the firm was interested.

The Ladies' Anti Polygamy Society, of Utah, has petitioned for the expulsion from Congress of Delegate Cannon. It is a disgrace to our Nation that there is any occasion for the presentation of such a document. That Cannon should have been fired out on his first appearance in Congress.

It is all very well for a man to boast of his family and hold himself aloof because his grandfather was up in the world, but it is better to be reasonably modest about it, because some one may possibly remember that it was a rope which held him up.

A subscription was solicited from Jim Fisk to build a fence around a cemetery. Jim said he could not see the necessity of it, as those outside did not want to get in, and those inside couldn't get out.

The man with new tight shoes and an ingrowing nail seems to be the one who is always selected by fate to run for a train.

If every man put himself down at the valuation placed upon him by neighbors, lots of us would be offering to sell out very cheap.

She certainly has a pretty foot, but, after all, it didn't make half so much impression on him as the old man's.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Dec., 8th, 1879.

The next President campaign and the fear of their own shadows, are troubling the Democrats more than anything else, and hence they do not exhibit a disposition to rush into the business of legislation. They will not even allow their Committees on the appropriation bills to do any work for more than a month.

How to get rid of Tilden seems to be the chief point in the Presidential question among them. The anti-Tilden men are in conjunction with the Kelley man in New York; have tried several devices, such as inventing looms for their own New Yorkers, but they did not work well. Judge Church and Seymour will have more of such cats paw business. The latest scheme is to put Bayard forward, as the Eastern candidate, but this will not do, for Tilden would not allow him to be elected, if it were possible for the Democrats to carry New York, under any circumstances. So the poor Democrats are destined to remain miserable while the Republican boom is going on with great vigor.

The coalition of the Republicans in Virginia with the re adjusted was a surprise to our friends generally. But it is very neatly explained. The Republicans are justified in this course; by this means they will overthrow the faction in the Democracy which is responsible for the cruel oppression of the blacks, and besides there is no compast between the two parties on the debt question.

There will be no financial legislation this session, or next of much consequence. It can be safely said, that the Republicans have no desire to open any question that may have an ill effect on the present hopeful condition of the country. As for the Democrats they may attempt some legislation to discredit the Government finances, but the Presidents veto will be in their way.

I find the general feeling in favor of adjourning over from the middle of this month to the second week in January. The desire of Democrats to delay all business as much as possible and of Republicans to attend the Grant reception in Philadelphia, will encourage this disposition.

The developments in Louisiana regarding violence and fraud did not astonish those who know the Democratic leaders there. They did not mean to resort to murder if they could carry their point without. But towards election day it began to dawn upon them, that perhaps they might be beaten, and they put the old machinery in motion. Result, several murders, and such intimidation that strong Republican districts had no Republican votes in the ballot boxes. This is another straw in the immense heap that has been accumulating to break the Democratic back. Hon. N. E. Chandler has arrived in town, and is expected to be chosen Chairman, of the National Republican Committee. He is confident of a grand victory next year.

MAXWELL.

The tide of immigration is strong again. For the year preceding the first of November there was a total of 162,715 arrivals at New York, against 119,069 for the previous twelve months. Subtracting the sojourners and the citizens of the United States returning, there is a total of 124,615 genuine immigrants for the period in question, against 80,148 for the equal period just preceding,

The Stanislaus News says that a narrowgauge railroad will be built at an early day to tide water at Antioch, up the west side and on to Kern Island. It is believed that the productions of the Carr and Haggin ranches and the Miller and Lux irrigated farms will alone pay for its construction.

A large number of the horses in the Carson livery stables are suffering from a peculiar complaint; in fact a regular epidemic. It seems symptoms of the disorder; swelling of the legs and general debility ensues.

TERM OF COUNTY OFFICERS.

The adoption of the new Constitution has made affairs more muddled, instead of making them plainer, so that there could be no question as to what is law and what is not. It has been a mooted question as to when county and township officers were to take their offices and commence the discharge of their duties. The matter was referred to Attorney General Hamilton, who gave his opinion, that the officers elected in September last could not take their offices until the first Monday in March next, but afterwards he reconsidered his decision and rendered another to the effect that all State and county and township officers took office on the first Monday after the first day of January next. This was satisfactory for a while, until a test case was made in San Francisco so as to have the question settled by the Supreme Court. That tribunal has rendered its decision. The Court is of the opinion that the term of the State Officers only is fixed by the Constitution, and that such officers only can take their offices on the first Monday after the first day of January next, the Legislature having the sole power to provide for the election or appointment of municipal, county and township officers and fix their terms of office. Under the new Constitution all laws, now in force will remain the laws of the State until July 1st 1880, unless sooner repealed by the incoming Legislature. This gives our present county and township officers a lease of life of two months longer, until the first Monday in March 1880, when those elected in September last will take their places. The Superior Judge, Hon. R. M. Briggs, and the Justices of the Peace will take their offices as heretofore, on the 1st of January.

The question thus set at rest has been troubling the minds of the outgoing and incoming county and township officers, and it is well that it has been settled at last; but what a commentary upon our new Constitution—that the Supreme Court is almost daily called upon to decide upon its provisions, which should be so plain that the humblest in the land might understand: but the contrary is the case, and there is scarcely an article in the whole mass that cannot be twisted by a good lawyer to mean anything to suit the emergencies of his case. Notwithstanding there are many excellent provisions in the new organic Act of your State, we believe the people of California will be heartily ashamed of themselves before the year 1880 is ended for adopting such a mess of inconsistencies.

CHRISTMAS GOODS.

As the time for making presents is at hand a glance through our advertising columns will tell our readers where to get any article they may desire:

West & Bryant have a fine assortment of silver and heavily plated ware which they offer at low prices. They have also a fine assortment of glassware, and many other articles suitable for presents such as dress goods and the thousand little fixings so dear to the ladies and children. Those contemplating getting up Christmas dinners will find here all the palate can crave, they having an immense assortment of groceries, provisions, wines, liquors, etc.

If you desire jewelry, watches, silverware etc, you will find a valuable stock at L. Hollander's jewelry store; prices to suit all. His assortment is complete, and the goods are of the best quality and latest styles. A piece of jewelry is a nice and appropriate present for any one.

Silas B. Smith has a large store of dry goods from which to select an appropriate present for a lady friend—and what lady would refuse a handsome dress, or a lace collar, nice shawl, etc, etc. He has also a large assortment of toys and fancy articles suitable for Christmas presents for the young and old.

It will not do to look shabby during the holidays, so go to Reinstein & Wolf and buy a fashionable suit of clothes at San Francisco price; and don't you forget to buy an ulster to ward off pneumonia and other ills.

W. H. Ellis has a variety of holiday goods at living prices, and one of his beautiful canary birds will be an acceptable present to any lady. He has an elegant stock of fancy stationery.

For poultry, nice can goods, French candies, nuts, wines, etc., go to O. Boscacci, next Ellis' store, where you will be suited, both in quality and price.

For the best of candies and toys go to Mrs. Swan, Abbott's Building.

For meats, fat and juicy, go to the City Market, the Central, Standard, or Union—all being well supplied with choice cuts.

Those who have not an invite to a Christmas dinner, we advise to go to the Grand Central House, Johnson's Bodie House, Champion and Clarendon Hotels, or Can Can Restaurant and enjoy a turkey dinner, etc., and then, if you dare not go home, take a night cap at the Occidental Saloon, and a room at the Occidental Hotel, and next day subscribe for the BODIE CHRONICLE—the only reliable paper in Bodie, and "Don't you forget it."

H. Ward has a full stock of rich furniture, as well as the plainer sort, and many articles suitable for presents.

At the U. S. Bakery can be had all kinds of cakes, pies, etc, suitable for the holidays.

CONTINUED CHANGES.—Newspaper changes are becoming an everyday occurrence in this town, and county, as well. Within a month the Standard has twice changed its editors and managers. The News about ten days ago, made a great splurge and enlarged from a 28-column to a 32 column paper, but, lo and behold, on Wednesday last it shrunk to its old dimension—28 columns, giving as an excuse, that the publication of their weekly had relieved its columns of the press of advertisements. This is a very lame excuse for reducing its size as the advertisements inserted in that paper were intended by the advertiser to be published in the daily and not in the weekly; and in making this change some legal advertisements that were transferred from the daily to the weekly have become null and void, and will have to be republished. The death of its offspring, the Evening Union, which was the starter of the Bodie newspaper graveyard, and this reduction from a 32 to a 28-column are evidence of a sickly constitution. The Mammoth City Times has also changed hands, Bogart & Farnham having leased that establishment to Yaney & Glenn. The Bentonian has suspended. Verily, with the abatement of pneumonia, our cotemporaries seem to have severe attacks of nomoney. In the meantime the BODIE CHRONICLE is healthy and vigorous.

PIONEER BANQUET.—The Pacific Coast Pioneers will, on New Year's Eve, have a banquet at the Grand Central House. It is strictly an invitation dinner, and members will be furnished with cards for themselves and their invited friends upon application to the Committee. It promises to be one of the most enjoyable entertainments ever held in Bodie.

DIVIDEND.—The Bodie Con. Co. has declared its regular monthly dividend of 50 cents a share.

THE NOONDAY MILL.

This fine mill is finished and ready for the production of bullion, and crushing will commence on Tuesday next. The mill is situated a short distance south of the Noonday combination hoisting works, with which it is connected by a tramework tramway, over which the ore is delivered into the ore house, a building 40x80 feet, the ore being dumped on to a heavy iron grating, which allows only the small pieces of ore to fall through into the hoppers which feed the self-feeders to the batteries—each battery of five stamps having a patent a patent self-feeder. The ore house will hold 1000 tons of ore, and is most substantially built. The ground floor of the ore house is used for the storage of salt and other mill supplies. Then we come to the battery room, which is 5x60 feet, having 6 batteries of 5 stamps each, the stamps weighing 800 pounds. Stepping from the battery room we pass between and look down upon 48 large settling tanks, and step down into the pan room, which is 60x165 feet, containing 24 combination pans and 12 settlers, besides the tanks above mentioned. The slum is handled through the agency of two centrifugal slum pumps, saving much manual labor. Attached to the main building on the southwestern side is the boiler and engine house, 45x50 feet, and herein we have the propelling power of this mass of machinery, and to-be bullion producer. There are 3 large steel boilers, 36 inches in diameter and 16 feet long. The engine is a 220-horse power, with a 23-inch cylinder, 48 inch stroke, and will make 60 revolutions a minute. It is the manufacture of Wm. A. Harris, of the Harris Curliss Engine Works, of Providence R. I., and was put up by John H. Tosney, who was sent out by the Curliss Company to put up their beautiful piece of mechanism. The driving wheel that puts the manifold machinery in motion weighs 18 tons. The engine room is also graced with a Worthington double-action steam pump, and one of Dean's steam pumps, both fine pieces of machinery. This engine is the largest and finest in the district, so far, and on Thursday afternoon while we were admiring this beautiful specimen of American skill and ingenuity, Chief Engineer Tosney honored us by turning on steam for the first time, that we might witness its working. It worked easily and quietly, but on account of the painting of the driving wheel it could not be driven with any speed, but we take pleasure in acknowledging the compliment paid the BODIE CHRONICLE in giving us the pleasure of witnessing its first revolution.

The engine room is very neatly fitted up, and when the mill is doing its noble work in adding to the wealth of the county and renewing confidence in the mines of Bodie, Chief Engineer Tosney should be "happy and content" in the responsible position he holds. Adjoining the boiler room is the retorting room and assay office, the building being 25x25, both departments being fitted up in the best manner for the work in hand. The mill was built under contract by G. H. Maller and James Moe, well-known mill builders, and they have certainly given the Noondays, one that is creditable to them as contractors. It will start up under the superintendency of Mr. Moe, with John H. Tosney as Chief Engineer, and Mr. Nicholson, Assayer. We congratulate the people of Bodie, and all interested in the present and future of our promising camp, on the completion of these extensive reduction works, and the certainty of the ability of the Noonday mine to add, in the very near future, to the bullion shipments of the Bodie District.

PERSONAL.—A. F. Bryant and wife have returned home, Mr. Bryant having been East on business connected with the Spaulding mine.

Superintendent Searles, of the Spaulding, is back from Carson, where he has been hurrying forward the Spaulding machinery.

Superintendent Turner, of the South Bulwer, is also back from Carson, where he had been looking after South Bulwer machinery.

Col. Ferguson, of the Blackhawk, has gone to Oakland to spend the holidays with his family.

CHRISTMAS BALL.—The Odd Fellows Ball to be given on Christmas night will be a large and fashionable gathering and doubtless a pleasant party. Each lady upon entering the hall will be giving a ticket to be placed in a box, from which one will be drawn by a little girl, and the lady to whom the drawn ticket belongs will be presented with a fine gold ring, the gift of Silas B Smith. The best of music will be in attendance, and the dances will be entirely new in this city. Go and be joyful!

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Under "New To-Day" will be found the advertisements of Pioneers' Ball, January 8th; Pioneers' Banquet, New Year's Eve; Probate Notices—Wm. Henry, Simon Hamilton, Joseph Lesesne and L. C. Flynn; Grand Central House, S. N. Pitcher; R. S. Miner, houses for sale or rent; P. B. Taylor, Sheriff's sale; John W. Bagby, timber land application; Maybelle M. Co., assessment.

WORTHY OF NOTE.—That Bodie has more resident Pacific Coast Pioneers than any other place on the Coast, in proportion to population. The Society numbers fifty-four, and is augmented at every meeting. It serves to show that the old '49 spirit is yet alive and active, and its gatherings have the ring of those early days.

HEAVY STORM.—About 9 o'clock last evening snow commenced falling, and continued for fourteen hours, leaving an average of two feet upon our streets. The mail failed to arrive to-day.

CONFIRMED.—The Senate has confirmed the appointment of George L. Putnam, Postmaster at Bodie. This puts an end to the Postoffice "unpleasantness" of this town.

GRAND CENTRAL HOUSE.—This new candidate for popular favor will open on Christmas Day, under the management of S. M. Pitcher.

DANCING SCHOOL.—Antoine Duval lately of Omaha, teacher in dancing, will soon open a school.

THE BODIE MINES.

BOSTON CON,
Martin Jones, Sup't.

The main shaft is down 190 feet and timbered, double compartment, to the bottom. The 200-foot station will be opened by January 1st, and the work of exploring the veins of the company at that level will be prosecuted with energy. The crossout started at a depth of 150 feet, cut a vein over ten feet thick, 21 feet east of the shaft. It contains some very high grade ore assaying into the hundreds and fully one half of the vein is quartz, and all being saved for the mill. The promise of this large vein is scarcely second to anything at the south end of the belt, and the deeper developments soon to be made by the opening of the 200 level will be watched with deep interst by all who are interested in the mines of this district.

CON PACIFIC.

The main shaft is now down 57 feet below the 400 station and in good working ground. The north drift is now in 63 feet. The extreme hardness of the rock in this drift has made progress very slow, but the face of the drift is now in better ground, and considerable more vein matter has made its appearance.

South drift, 400 level is in 34 feet the whole drift in vein with no east wall; quartz giving fair assays. Have completed the tank to receive the water from condensed steam.

MCCLINTON.
Russell F. Lord, Sup't.

Drifting north on the 675 level—vein 4 feet wide and looking well. Crosscutting east on the same level. Have been making good progress on the 500 level, west crossent. Ladders have been put in from the surface to 300 level, making a continuous manway to every part of the mine. Everything is working well.

NOONDAY.
John Parham, Sup't.

Everything about the mine is looking well. Ore is being run to the new mill of the Company, just completed, and which will commence crushing on Tuesday next. If any have doubts of the worth of the Noonday mine the workings of the mill will soon dissipate them and show that the south-enders have something tangible, as well as those interested on the northern end of our mineral belt. Today the new pumps will be set to work.

UNIVERSITY.
D. F. Moore, Sup't.

The shaft is down 250 feet, and still in hard ground, but there is an appearance of a change impending, and better headway may be made next week. Several stringers of quartz are coming in. Everything about the machinery is working well.

SPAULDING.
W. A. Searles, Sup't.

The Spaulding Mill is going ahead toward completion as fast as the arrival of the machinery will permit. The boilers have been set and the smoke stack is up. The pans are in position, and the engine and balance of the machinery will be put in place soon after arrival.

STANDARD MILL.—This old standby of Bodie started up again about 10 o'clock on Thursday evening, and the manufacture of golden bricks goes on steadily. For the past two weeks it has seemed strange not to hear the familiar clatter of the Standard stamps.

The following locations have been recorded by District Recorder George Macartney:

MERRY CHRISTMAS.—We wish all a Merry Christmas.

The Mammoth City Times will hereafter be issued semi-weekly.

COUNTY OFFICERS.—An opinion of the Supreme Court has been filed in the case of Stuart vs. Reynolds, the court having a few days since decided from the bench that A. Stuart, the County Clerk elected at the last general election was entitled to take his office on the first Monday in December. The Court is of the opinion that the officers referred to in Section 20, Article XX, of new Constitution, viz: "Whose terms of office shall commence on the first Monday after the first day of January next following their election," are not municipal, county or township officers chosen in 1879, but State officers, such as Governor and other officers who constitute the Executive Department of the State Government. It is held that the Legislature must provide for the election and fix the terms of officers of county, township and municipal officers.

The General Land Office recently decided that all the affidavits required by law in support of applications for mineral patents must be made by the applicants themselves. Under this ruling a number of applications and affidavits, filed in local land districts by the agents of non resident owners of mines, have been rejected. The Acting Commissioner of the General Land Office has however, at the instance of Senator Hill, of Colorado, issued an order that no more cancellations of this sort shall be made until Congress takes action upon the pending bill, which provides that such applications and affidavits in cases of non residents shall be valid if sworn to by local agents cognizant of the facts.

The Democratic Governor and Council of Maine ignored the will of the people as expressed through the ballot box at the late election by giving certificates election to the defeated Democratic candidates, on merely technical grounds. This action has alarmed the Democrats generally, and the papers of that persuasion are scoring Governor Garcelon and his brother conspirators for overriding the will of the voters. The N. Y. World bitterly denounces this villainous scheme to rob the people of Maine of their rights. What a blundering party the Democratic party has become in late years.

REMINDS OF OLD TIMES.—Several gentlemen of this city have recently received from the East—principally through the mails—packages of nuts common there, but virtually unknown in California. Prominent among these is the little beech-nut, so popular in the Northern States. Every man who received a package donated a few to his intimates, who were as delighted to see them as they would be to meet old friends. Many of the recipients have planted the nuts, with the exception of a few esten to see whether they had the same old flavor, while others have intimated a determination to send East for young trees, and it is quite probable that Young Sacramento will in a few years know the pleasures of beech nutting, so says the Sacramento Record-Union.

The Placer Argus says that the citizens of Ophir, Placer county, organized a Vigilance Committee, and

"Written notice were served a day or two later upon a number of the roughs, male and female, who have been the cause of most of the broils of the past year. Six or seven men and three women have already left town in unwilling compliance with these written requests, and it is intimated that more will have to follow.

It seems to be quite certain that the President has made up his mind to nominate John Morton as Collector of Internal Revenue at San Francisco. THE CHRONICLE.

BODIE, DECEMBER 20, 1879.

IF ONLY MOTHERS KNEW.

If only mothers knew, she said,
How hungry children are for love,
Above each virgin little bed
A mother's lips would prove
How sweet are kisses that are given
Between a rosy mouth and heaven.

If only my mamma would kneel,
As your dear mother, every night,
Beside her little girl, to feel
If all the wraps are folded tight,
And hold her elbow fair
Between my cheeks and her soft hair;

And looking in my dreaming eyes
As if she saw some lovely thing,
And smiling in such fond surprise
On all my hopes of life that spring
Like flowers beneath her tender gaze,
I could not stray in evil ways.

I would not wound the gentle breast
That held me warm with its fold;
My mother's love would still be best;
However sad, or plain or old;
But, even though the world forsake,
I'd love her for her love's dear sake.

Recently, Charlie Cochrane, who was for many years the faithful groom for the celebrated trotter, "Goldsmith Maid," arrived from California and, wishing to see the grand old trotting mare and her colt, called on Mr. Smith her owner, to obtain his permission to visit Fashion Stud Farm, in New Jersey. Mr. Smith, accompanied Cochrane to the farm, and, arriving, remarked:—'Charlie, the 'Maid' is very jealous of her colt, is very cross, and will permit no one to approach it." Cochrane arranged that "Goldsmith Maid" should hear his voice before she saw him, and, although they had not seen each other for years, a loud whinny presently assured the visitors that the mare had recognized the man. Cochrane next showed himself, when a touching scene occurred. The queen of the turf, who, for months, would not allow any one to approach her, making use of both heels and teeth if it was attempted, rushed with a bound to her old friend, forgetting even her colt, and rubbed her head upon his shoulder, her nose in his face, played with his whiskers, and showed by her every action that her heart was full of joy to see him. Directly the colt came up to them, and the old mare was delighted when Charlie placed his hand on the little fellow. When Cochrane left the place, the mare followed him to the gate, whinnying for him even after he had passed out of sight.

One of the most idiotic and at the same time popular superstitions is that when a man is bitten by a dog, if the dog is not immediately killed, and should at any other time be attacked with the hydrophobia, the person bitten will also have the disease; dog blood sympathy can hardly extend as far as that, and one would suppose the ghost of a dead dog would be far more dangerous because less tangible than the living animal. Unless a dog has the hydrophobia at the time he bites a person, he cannot give the disease, and whether he lives or is sacrificed, will have no effect whatever upon the person bitten. The writer has known dog fanciers to be bitten sometimes twice a day, yet they neither killed the dog nor had the hydrophobia.

THE SOCIAL CRITIC.—If you would have any friends at all, don't set yourself up for a critic. If you don't like any one's nose, or object to any one's chin, do not put your feelings into words. If any one's manners do not please you, remember your own. People are not all made to suit one taste; recollect that. Take things as you find them, unless you can alter them. Even a dinner, after it is swallowed, cannot be made any better. Continual faultfinding, continual criticism of the conduct of this one, and the speech of that one, the dress of one, and the opinions of another, will make home the unhappiest place under the sun. If you are never pleased with any one, no one will be pleased with you; and if it is known you are hard to suit few will take the pains to suit you.

Joseph Head, a Harvard graduate, now more than ninety years old, is the only original member of the brilliant "Boston Hussars" now living. This company, formed in the first decade of the century, had for commander Josiah Quincy, and was dressed in a most striking uniform of scarlet pelisse, lined and trimmed with fur, a plumed hat, green jacket and overalls, the former trimmed with yellow cord.

A palsied old man, nearly 80 years of age, is confined in jail at Belfast, Me for a debt of $10 due a Belfast lawyer for advice, and the lawyer was one whose advice he never asked, as he says He employed another lawyer, and that other lawyer asked the advice.

On the bills of fare at the White Sulphur Springs Hotel, Old Virginia, the following significant line appears: "Engagement rings can be had at the jewelry store."

A recent obituary notice says: Mr. Smith was an estimable citizen. He died with perfect resignation. He had recently been married.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN,

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with the frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient can not account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

OFFICE HOURS—10 to 4 and 6 to 8. Sunday from 10 to 11 A M Consultation free. Thorough examination and advice, $5.
